1. Introduction

IMAGINE that you are working at Rex Bank, and you have to decide which computers to purchase for your organization. You learnt mathematics in school, and can decide which salesman is offering you a better price. But to choose the right computers for your bank, you need something more than the knowledge of mathematics.

The slide features the word 'Learner' in large orange letters with a yellow underline, followed by 'Within' in the same style. Below this, 'The Art of Self-Directed Learning' is written in red. To the right is a cartoon illustration of a person in a meditative pose with a yellow halo. Above the person are the words 'Learn', 'know', 'stand', and 'master' arranged in a circle, with 'Perform' in the center. The background is white with a light blue border.

Anger Management

- in 21 Tweets!

1. Anger can have an adverse impact on your health - high BP, stress... If not managed it can transform into rage, which is even more harmful!

2. Anger distorts perception and reasoning and leads to wrong decision making.

3. From an organisation perspective managing anger is important because it has a direct bearing on productivity. A happy team achieves more.

Deep Thinking Skills for Better Decision Making

- in 21 Visual Tweets!

1. Brain is efficient but lazy!

2. Brain boils down every input it receives to a pattern that can be stored and recalled easily.

5. And at times 'acting on instinct' is the right approach...

When in danger the brain decides 'fight or flight' instinctively.
